OHS KAYs Holds Easter Egg Hunt At Leisure Park

J.J. Reece, son of Melvin and Elly Reece of Onaga, found a bunch of eggs as he raced around the playground of Leisure Park on Saturday. The KAYs (Kansas Association for Youth) have sponsored the Easter Egg Hunt for many years. Previous to the merging of male and female clubs, the KAYs and KAYettes, the girls ran the egg hunt.

County Adds New Plaque to Veterans Memorial

The newest plaque containing the names of 50 Pottawatomie County Veterans was added to the Veterans Memorial located near the Historical County Courthouse on the corner of Main St. and Second St. in West- moreland. It was official- ly unveiled on Monday during a well attended ceremony.

County Commission Chair Terry Force addressed the crowd during the unveiling.

"I always loved this quote. 'A veteran is someone who at one point in their life wrote a blank check payable to the United States of America for the amount up to and including their life,'" he began. "I mean, that has always hit home with me from day one. I can't express my grate- itude enough for those who did serve our coun- try throughout the years. You all have my utmost respect and admiration."

The names of hon- orably discharged men and women that reside or have resided in Pot- tawatomie County, and served in any branch of the U.S. Military after Dec. 31, 1946 have continually been added to the memorial since its original dedication in May of 1992. Each plaque on the monument con- tains 50 names and once 50 names are collected, a new bronze plaque is cast to be added to the monument.

Names of county vet- erans can be submitted through a form on the county website. In addi- tion, challenge coins hon- oring veterans are avail- able for purchase at the County Treasurer's Of- fice. The proceeds help pay for the upkeep of the memorial.

CULVERT LINING

Public Works Direc- tor Tim Eisenbarth re- quested approval to use $250,000 for ultraviolet light cured culvert lin- ing of five tubes in the county, most of which are located on Whea- ton Rd. The tubes have rusted bottoms and are at their end of life. This is the same process Public Works has used for the previous two years.

The cured-in-place process is trenchless, requires no digging, and offers minimal to zero dis- ruption to traffic. The cost upfront is more expen- sive than simply digging out the old tube and re- placing it. But the cured lining is engineered and structural and will last four times longer than simply replacing the tube. While the process is not new to the county, it is new to the four recently elected commissioners. Eisenbarth offered a de- tailed explanation of the process and brought in samples of the product for the commission to view.

"This process was ini- tially started a couple of years ago to deal with linings under asphalt roads," explained Eisen- barth. "Removal of a tube under an asphalt road is very hard. No matter how good of a compaction job you do, you will always have settling. Along with that, any time you tear up that road you are going to have downtime, which means the road is going to be closed. When we initially did the numbers three years ago, and we compared what the cost would be for us to remove that tube, put a new tube in, compact it, patch it with asphalt, and then come back typically one to two years later and patch again, the cost was almost the same. Within a thousand dollars of be- ing the same."

Eisenbarth went on to explain the benefits of using the UV light cured process. "There's no interruption to traf- fic throughout the whole process. Longevity wise, there is 75 to 100 years on this product," he said. "Your price is going to range somewhere from $400 to $900 a foot."

Eisenbarth also stressed that simply re- placing the tube may last 25 years and would result in repeated road patching. Whereas, the cured lining would last up to four times as long, and required no digging or disruption to traffic.

Commissioners Merl Page and Bill Drew re- quested more specific cost comparisons of re- placing the tubes verses using the UV cured lining method. "For me it isn't enough information to make a decision," said Drew. "Maybe the past commissioners got that information."

"We did have the peo- ple come out and talk about it, and walk through it. And answered our questions," explained Commissioner Dee McK- ee, the only commis- sioner who was serving on the board when the coun- ty first decided to use the UV cured liners.

Force felt it was im- portant to move forward. "What we are doing here is we are just giving them a budget of $250,000 to do what they've done in the past. I'm not of the mind to reinvent the wheel, because I can understand time is of the essence. We need to get on their schedule in order to get in the rotation, possibly pick up some discounts and that kind of thing. Personally, what I'd like to do is authorize this thing today so you guys can get going on that. And next week may- be bring back that sheet
