

Pacers coach says KU’s Johnny Furphy will make ‘full recovery’ from ACL tear

The NBA’s Indiana Pacers are confident former University of Kansas guard Johnny Furphy will be able to overcome a huge setback — the ACL tear he suffered after completing a one-handed dunk during Sunday’s game against the Toronto Raptors.

It’s an injury that has ended Furphy’s 2025-26 season and, after surgery, will sideline the 21-year-old Melbourne, Australia native through the summer months, when a lot of improvement in one’s game is made.

“This is a very unfortunate situation but time goes by quickly. He’s very young. I expect him to make a full recovery,” Pacers coach Rick Carlisle said Tuesday on 107.5 The Fan radio in Indianapolis.

“It’ll be several months. You hear a different time frame with all this stuff, eight to 12 months. No one knows for sure. He’s a great kid. He’s very disappointed and so are we, but he will be back,” Carlisle added.

Furphy, who averaged 5.2 points, 4.4 rebounds, 1.1 assists and 18.5 minutes per game in 34 games in this, his second season in the league, was to undergo surgery by “one of the best (surgeons) in the world,” Carlisle said.

“Yesterday I spent about a half hour with him in his hotel room. One of his good friends from Australia is here. His summer trainer is here,” Carlisle said. “I just spent 30 min-

“We’re just trying to encourage him, let him know everybody will be with him. We feel his pain too. It’s obvious we have a strong belief in him. He will make a full recovery.”

Some players who have recovered from ACL tears and continued their NBA careers: Derrick Rose, Al Harrington, Baron Davis, Jamal Murray, Zach LaVine, Kyle Lowry and Kristaps Porzingis.

Furphy, the No. 35 overall pick in the 2024 NBA Draft, averaged 2.1 points, 1.4 rebounds and 7.6 minutes per game in 50 games in 2024-25, his rookie season.

“There are so many things, the defense, the rebounding, the running. His shooting is on the rise. He’s grown in so many ways,” Carlisle said.

Furphy, who was slowed by a pair of ankle sprains to start the 2025-26 season, hit 47% of his shots prior to suffering the ACL tear, including 32.4% from 3. As a rookie he hit 38.0% of his shots and 30% of his 3s.

The 6-foot-8, 200-pound Furphy averaged 9.0 points a game on 46.6% shooting (35.2% from 3) during the 2023-24 season, his one-and-done season at KU.

Furphy is under contract with the Pacers for next season at $2.3 million with the team holding a $2.5 million option for the 2027-28 season.

According to ESPN, Furphy’s older sister Holly, a striker for the A-League Australian soccer club Melbourne Victory, had ACL surgery in her first year of college soccer at Santa Clara. She recovered to play two years at the California school and now has started her pro career.

TESERO, ITALY

Norway’s Johannes Klaebo won the men’s 10km freestyle cross-country ski race on Friday to earn his eighth Olympic title and equal the record for the most gold medals at the Winter Games.

Mathis Desloges of France won silver, his second of the Milan Cortina Olympics, while Norway’s Einar Hedegart won the bronze.

The victory was the third of this Olympics for Klaebo, 29, and tied the Norwegian skier with three of his compatriots -- fellow cross-country skiers Marit Bjørgen and Bjorn Daehlie and biathlete Ole Einar Bjørndalen -- with eight gold medals overall. He was scheduled to ski in three more events and could take the outright lead for gold medals by an individual Olympian.

“Today is one of the toughest races we’ve done, and everyone was completely exhausted when we crossed the finish line. For me, today was really hard. I tried to open with control and at the end there it was really hard,” said Klaebo, who won his first three Olympic golds at the 2018 Pyeongchang Games and two more at the 2022 Beijing Games.

“I’m really satisfied with being first. This is my first time winning a 10k in interval style.”

Hedegart, a biathlete who shifted his focus to cross-country skiing and was considered one of Klaebo’s biggest challengers, came close to taking victory, but lost steam on a climb in the final section of the race.

He ended up in third, 14 seconds behind the winner, with Desloges 4.9 seconds adrift in the interval-style race.

“I’ve never experienced this kind of dizziness. I was so dizzy the last two kilometers and I had nothing left in the tank, so it was just pain and suffering,” Hedegart said.

“In the last 200m I didn’t know if I was going to make it to the finish line, and even though it was only downhill I was so scared that I would pass out.”

Skiers faced another day of warm weather, with temperatures hitting 42 degrees, prompting some to forgo their tops and only wear a race bib. Those starting earlier in the competition had an advantage as conditions deteriorated over the course of the race, causing several skiers to crash when going down hills.

Course officials decided against salting the track to make the snow more compact, as they had done the previous day for the women’s 10km freestyle event.
